

PLAYS AND PLAYERS OF THE AMUSEMENT WORLD AS THEY APPEAR IN NEWS AND STORY

THEATRICAL BAEDER FOR NEXT WEEK

NEW ATTRACTIONS

GARRICK—"Husbands Guaranteed," with Fritz Schaff and Jefferson De Angelis. "A temperamental musical comedy, with music by August Kleinbeck and book and lyrics by Joseph Herbert. In the cast are Crawford Kent, William Harrigan, Clarence Harvey, Amelia Summerville, Alice Heggman, Grayce Scott and others. Opening, Monday night.

CONTINUING PLAYS

LITTLE THEATRE—"You Never Can Tell," with Charles D. Mitchell, Dorothy Shindler, Marie Haer and the Stage Society Players. Admittance revival.

LYRIC—"Civilization," Thomas H. Ince's motion-picture portraying the horrors of war and the excitement of battle on land and sea and in the air. Superb martial spectacle and sentimental symbolism.

BROAD—"Little Lady in Blue," with Frances Starr. Costume comedy about an adorable little miss and some picturesque persons. Diverting. Indorsed by the Drama League.

FORBET—"Chin-Chin," with David Montgomery and Fred Stone. Return engagement of the popular musical extravaganza with the famous comedians appearing in various impersonations.

ADELPHI—"Experience," with Ernest Glendinning. A "modern morality play," with more humaneness than graced "Everywoman." There is a large cast. Glendinning acts superbly.

AT POPULAR PRICES

WALNUT—"Mutt and Jeff's Wedding," in which Mutt and Jeff sport themselves in a new guise. Melodrama, farce, music and extravaganza mixed in the entertainment.

STOCK

KNICKERBOCKER—"The Divorce Question," with Anna Dougherty, John Lorenz and the stock company. A stage story of "every woman's experience" as recited by the author of this modern narrative.

FEATURE FILMS

STANLEY—"Oliver Twist," Lasky-Paramount, with Marie Dore, Tully Marshall and Hobart Bosworth, adapted from Dickens's novel, first half of the week.

ARCADIA—"The Matrimonial," Fine Arts-Triangle, with Douglas Fairbanks, and "The Rink," Lone Star-Mutual, with Charles Chaplin, first half of week.

VICTORIA—"The Honorable Alys," Kay-Bee-Triangle, with Charles Ray, and "The Rink," with Charles Chaplin, first half of week. "The Little Sunbeam," Rolfe-Metro, with Mabel Taliaferro, later half of week. "The Rink," Saturday.

PALACE—"The Flow Girl," Lasky-Paramount, with Mae Murray, and "The Rink," with Charles Chaplin, first half of week. "The Yellow Pawn," Lasky-Paramount, with Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgely, later half of week. "The Rink," Saturday.

CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE—"A Daughter of the Gods," with Annette Kellermann. Last times of a feature with spectacle and beauty of the best, but somewhat lacking in dramatic significance.

VAUDEVILLE

KNICKERBOCKER—Russian Ballet, with Theodore Kossloff and Vlasta Maslova; Nan Halperin (second week); "The Call of Childhood," a fantasy of Halperin, and Eugenio; Frank Crumit, "the one-man glee club"; Mirano Brothers, Adelaide Boothby, comedians; Kitter, Hawkins and McElay, Maxine Brothers and news pictures.

GLOBE—"The Fashion Show," the Tierney Four, Maurice Samuel and Company, Lea Alverstein, Jack Symonds, Chief Eagle Horse, Cora Simpson and Company, May Blisbery and the Yamamoto Brothers.

GRAND—"Prevarication," with Bert Baker.

From Odessa to Broadway

Continued from Page Seven the hit of the other show. Poor, quiet little me didn't even get mentioned when Blossom was discovered by some one and dragged to an eager and interested East.

"My time, however, did come. It was in the great Southwest, or thereabouts. I had been to Chicago (that far East) and a magnate had put me out in the three-a-day. While I was three-a-daying, Valerie Bergero (she's well known in Philadelphia, isn't she?) came into the theatre and was much taken with my style and general material. She urged me to go to New York, but I was a bit timorous. I was awfully afraid my subdued stuff wouldn't get across. Miss Bergero persuaded me to the contrary, and the result was that I opened in Brooklyn. For some reason they liked me. Result: Vaudeville and contentment, at least a fair amount of it.

"For absolute gain is impossible in the single act in the variety. Why? Well, in stock or anything where there are a number of people employed you feel always that you can lean on some one mentally. If you're nervous, tired or apprehensive, in vaudeville, no! There you are, one diminutive person on a tremendous stage, and people out front, biting, perhaps, some of the stunts you do, but remembering far more clearly the stunts they didn't like. The Inferno never had anything on Monday afternoon. Critical theatregoers, critical newspaper critics, be they good or bad. It is an ordeal!"

RICHARD CARLE HAS NO BARBER'S LICENSE

Richard Carle had a close shave the other evening in Chicago, when he was waited upon by Peter L. Frost, of 165 North Clark street, representing the State Board of Barber's License, and requested to show his State license for working in the "Loop."

Mr. Frost displayed his card, bearing No. 3889, and formally commanded Carle to disclose his. Carle remarked: "I am not a barber, have no use for barbers and don't give a rap about your barber's business. Some years ago I went into one of your shops and very modestly without removing my collar, the impatient shaver replied: 'Yes, Mr. Carle, and I can cut your hair without you taking off your hat.' That retort has cost you probably many and many a dollar of ransom."
